

President's Message

The Hofstra Cultural Center has produced an outstanding schedule of lectures, performances, conferences and other events for the coming fall.

Building on the success of the presidential debate held at Hofstra in October 2008 and the accompanying, award-winning Educate '08 series, we are pleased to continue our focus on public policies and politics with Define '09: New Challenges, New Solutions. Our lecturers this fall include Nicholas Kristof, Sheryl WuDunn, Nina Totenberg and many others.

Several important conferences are an integral part of our Define '09 schedule and our scholarly offerings this fall. In October the Hofstra Cultural Center and The National Center for Suburban Studies at Hofstra University will host one of our largest conferences to date, The Diverse Suburb: History, Politics and Prospects, which will bring together scholars and opinion leaders from across the country and around the globe to discuss the emerging phenomenon of suburban diversity. Hofstra Law School also hosts its biennial ethics conference this October, titled Power, Politics, and Public Service: The Ethics of Lawyers in Government.

In November the Peter S. Kalikow Center for the Study of the American Presidency hosts President or King? Evaluating the Expansion of Executive Power From Abraham Lincoln to George W. Bush, with the keynote address delivered by New York Times columnist David Brooks.

The School of Education, Health and Human Services has designed a range of programming, from the outstanding IDEAS lecture series, which advances public understanding of science, to conferences and programs that benefit classroom teachers and community leaders. The Department of Drama and Dance will stage the excellent musical On the Town and a special Fall Dance Concert and other performances commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Hofstra Dance Program. The Joseph G. Astman International Concert Series features popular American songs and genres of the 20th century, while the new Irish Studies Program hosts a semester-long film and lecture series.

Iconic graphic forms are on display at the Hofstra University Museum's exhibition of Burton Morris: Pop! in the Emily Lowe Gallery, while in the David Filderman Gallery (on the ninth floor of the Axinn Library), Andy Warhol: The Photographic Legacy Program displays recent gifts to the museum from the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts.

As always, the programs available to the public range from scholarly lectures to exciting performances of theater, music and drama; business programs through the Scott Skodnek Business Development Center; tours and discussion groups; and family fun and festivals, such as September's Italian Experience Festival. We invite you to come back to school this fall on our campus and explore all that Hofstra University has to offer.

Sincerely,

Stuart Rabinowitz
President

Hofstra Cultural Center

The Hofstra Cultural Center is an internationally renowned organization that includes a conference and symposium component, a music program, and the publication of the proceedings of its conferences and symposia. It plans and coordinates conferences and symposia in the fields of humanities, business, law and the sciences to promote the University as an international arena of scholarly thought and to foster Long Island as a cultural entity. The activities of the Hofstra Cultural Center augment the offerings of the academic departments of the University.

The conference and symposium component develops educational programs related to the cultural and interdisciplinary experience of students, faculty, staff, alumni and international scholars. The Hofstra Cultural Center has sponsored more than 130 conferences and symposia and has won international recognition for its Presidential Conference Series. Conferences, lectures, theater performances and concerts are open to members of the Hofstra family and the community at large.

NEW CHALLENGES, NEW SOLUTIONS

Building on the success of Educate '08 and Debate '08, Hofstra University is pleased to present Define '09: New Challenges, New Solutions, a yearlong series of programs that will examine the new presidential administration, its policies and initiatives, the challenges we face, and ways to address our country's most pressing issues. Define '09 is designed to keep our students and the entire surrounding community engaged and informed about the new administration of President Barack Obama and to encourage civic awareness and engagement.

From its beginning in spring 2009, Define '09 has brought a wide variety of speakers to campus, such as Tariq Ali, author of The Duel: Pakistan on the Flight Path of American Power; Jonathan Alter, senior editor of Newsweek and NBC News correspondent; Michael Barone, senior writer, U.S. News & World Report; Donna Brazile, political strategist and CNN commentator; Anderson Cooper, anchor, CNN, Anderson Cooper 360; David Plouffe, campaign manager, Obama for America; and Erin Vilardi, national program director for The White House Project and director of Vote, Run, Lead.

For information on this series of programs, please look for the Define '09 logo in this calendar, or visit hofstra.edu/define09.

Students Rights Conference

co-sponsored by the

NEW YORK CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION

Do students know their rights and responsibilities in and out of school and in cyberspace? This conference allows students the opportunity to exchange experiences and ideas with students from other schools and to hear first-hand from experts (lawyers, teachers and civil libertarians) about how to assert their rights, assume responsibilities, and remedy violations.

Date/Time: Wednesday, October 28, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Location: Sondra and David S. Mack Student Center, North Campus

Admission: Free (preregistration required)

To receive a detailed schedule of events and subscription information, please complete and mail the Information Request Card at the back of this brochure, or contact the corresponding department for details on each event.

Tourette Syndrome Conference

This conference will present the work of a consortium of leading researchers supported by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and coordinated by the national Tourette Syndrome Association (TSA). Applying principles of cognitive behavioral psychology, the group has refined a promising method called Comprehensive Behavioral Intervention for Tics (CBIT), which helps modify involuntary tic expression toward more socially acceptable patterns. The approach has been found to be highly effective, especially when compared to the use of medications. Participants will receive a book and other materials outlining CBIT, the treatment methods, and a clinical overview of Tourette Syndrome.

Date/Time: Tuesday, November 10, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Location: Sondra and David S. Mack Student Center, North Campus

Admission: Free (preregistration required)

IDEAS (Institute for the Development of Education in the Advanced Sciences)

IDEAS PUBLIC LECTURES ON SCIENCE

IDEAS provides a focus on cutting-edge issues in science and technology for the general public, local public and private school teachers and administrators, and college educators. It seeks to create public visibility and enhanced understanding of advances in science and technology. Note: Registration is not required for the free science lectures.

Searching for Telltale Signs of Hurricanes Past on the South Shore of Long Island

What are the long-term trends in hurricane activity in the New York area? Historical hurricane records are not complete, and hurricane records from satellites go back only a few decades. Hofstra Geology Professor E. Christa Farmer will describe her ongoing research on reconstructing hurricane strikes on Long Island from the geologic record provided by core samples from South Shore areas. Using these data, Dr. Farmer and her colleagues hope to determine what controls long-term patterns in tropical Atlantic hurricane development – something all Long Islanders want to know!

Speaker: E. Christa Farmer, Ph.D., Department of Geology
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Thursday, September 24, 7:30-9 p.m.

Location: Monroe Lecture Center Theater
California Avenue, South Campus

Admission: Free

Virtual Reality: A New Treatment Option for Phobias

Advancements in computer-based technologies, largely spearheaded by computer scientists and the video-gaming industry, have yielded virtual reality environments on a desktop computer that simulate lifelike experiences. Using the example of fear of flying, this lecture will discuss, demonstrate, and offer data to support the rationale for using virtual reality to augment other established therapy procedures in the treatment of anxiety disorders.

Speaker: Mitchell Schare, Ph.D., Department of Psychology
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Thursday, October 29, 7:30-9 p.m.

Location: Monroe Lecture Center Theater
California Avenue, South Campus

Admission: Free

Excavating the World Trade Center Site: New Perspectives on New York City Geology

Unique geological discoveries have been made during recent excavations of the World Trade Center site in southern Manhattan. Learn how the new construction effort has offered a treasure trove of new geological information that has changed the way we interpret the geology of New York City and vicinity.

Speaker: Charles Merguerian, Ph.D., Department of Geology
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Thursday, November 19, 7:30-9 p.m.

Location: Monroe Lecture Center Theater
California Avenue, South Campus

Admission: Free

IDEAS PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOPS

Exploring Ecosystems: A Field Trip to the Hofstra Bird Sanctuary

This workshop uses the Hofstra Bird Sanctuary as an example of how elementary and middle school teachers can teach about ecosystems while simultaneously fostering environmentally sensitive attitudes in students. Through hands-on investigations, teachers develop knowledge and competency in the big science ideas related to ecosystems, problem-based and project-based science curriculum.

Speakers: Irene Plonczak, Ph.D., Department of Curriculum and Teaching
Fred Soviero, Director of Grounds and Landscaping
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Saturday, October 24, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Can be taken for 8 hours toward professional development credit or 1 semester hour of Hofstra University graduate credit.

Professional Development Day for Teachers of Science at the Cradle of Aviation Museum

IDEAS is pleased to offer an opportunity for science teachers of all levels to learn about cutting-edge issues in their own areas of science. Participants will have an opportunity to explore the Cradle of Aviation Museum. Separate break-out sessions will be held for elementary, middle and high school science teachers.

Speaker: Jacqueline Grennon Brooks, Ph.D.
Department of Curriculum and Teaching
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Tuesday, November 3, 8:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

Location: Cradle of Aviation Museum, Garden City, NY

Fee: $55 per person* (includes lunch)

Can be taken for 6 hours toward professional development credit.

The Apollo Moon Landings: Learning About Critical Judgment and Explaining Scientific Evidence

Did our astronauts really walk on the moon or, as the FOX television program Conspiracy Theory suggested, was it all an elaborate $30 billion conspiracy to dupe the American public? This controversy will be used to stimulate classroom dialogue on the difference between evidence and hearsay. Dr. Stephen Lawrence will present competing theories, review relevant claims and physical evidence, and then discuss the best ways to critically judge between them. Dr. Lawrence will report – and teachers will learn how to help their students evaluate evidence.

Speaker: Stephen Lawrence, Ph.D., Department of Physics and Astronomy
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Saturday, November 21, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Location: Herman A. Berliner Hall, California Avenue, South Campus

Fee: $95 per person* (does not include cost of graduate credit)

Can be taken for 8 hours toward professional development credit or 1 semester hour of Hofstra University graduate credit.

Making Sense of Minerals, Rocks and Fossils

The goal of this workshop is to make sense of the seemingly endless variety of minerals, rocks and fossils by exploring the basic skills and observations geologists use to identify them. Through this exploration, underlying geologic principles will emerge.

Speaker: J Bret Bennington, Ph.D., Department of Geology
Hofstra University

Date/Time: Saturday, January 9, 2010, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Location: Gittleston Hall, California Avenue, South Campus

Fee: $95 per person* (does not include cost of graduate credit)

Can be taken for 8 hours toward professional development credit or 1 semester hour of Hofstra University graduate credit.

On the Town

music by Leonard Bernstein

book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green

book based on an idea by Jerome Robbins

directed by James J. Kolb

The year is 1944, and hundreds of thousands of military men are transiting through New York City on their way to duty overseas. Three sailors have 24 hours of shore leave, and they are looking to see the sights, find romance, and have a great night on the town, because after all, "New York, New York, it's a helluva of a town." Many of their wishes come true, but they also learn that "24 hours can go so fast" and that they will have to "catch up some other time." Enriched by a wonderful score by Leonard Bernstein and a comic script by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, On the Town is an exuberant song-and-dance valentine to New York City and to the men and women who did what they had to do to serve America during a time of war.

Dates/Times: Friday, October 23 and 30, 8 p.m.

The White Devil

directed by Royston Coppenger

The White Devil is a brutal, bloody and darkly comic revenge tragedy written by John Webster in 1612. A failure in its original production, Webster's vision of a world without morals or hope was loosely based on the real-life murder of Italian countess Vittoria Corombona at the behest of her husband and his mistress. Its title is based on the old English adage "The white devil is worse than the black."

Dates/Times: Friday, November 13 and 20, 8 p.m.

Shalom/Sholom!

conceived and performed by Bob Spiotto

Produced in conjunction with the 150th anniversary of the birth of Sholom Aleichem

Born Solomon Rabinowitz in 1859, the man who became known to the world as Sholom Aleichem, aka the Yiddish Mark Twain, left his literary mark on the world, weaving tales that once would have been told in the market square or around a warm fire. Bob Spiotto presents a smorgasbord of stories, re-creating them much as they might once have been heard, and with the same precarious balance of humor, horror, pathos, and philosophical insight.

Dates/Times: Friday, October 9, 8 p.m.

Saturday, October 10, 8 p.m.

Sunday, October 11, 2 p.m.

Location: Emily and Jerry Spiegel Theater

Yellow Labyrinths: The Many Worlds of Borges

conceived and performed by Bob Spiotto

“Everything happens for the first time, but in a way that is eternal. Whoever reads my words is inventing them.” — Jorge Luis Borges

One of the most widely acclaimed writers of our time, Jorge Luis Borges (1899-1986) published many collections of poems, essays, short stories, and fiction, and has consequently become one of the most universal of all Latin-American authors. Get ready to enter a world of magic and wonder, of high seriousness and wicked fun. This unique performance of exuberant storytelling engages both the heart and the intellect as Bob Spiotto presents a cornucopia of wit and wisdom showcasing many of the works of Borges.

Dates/Times: Friday, November 13, 8 p.m.

Saturday, November 14, 8 p.m.

EXHIBITIONS AND PUBLIC PROGRAMS

EMILY LOWE GALLERY

Behind Emily Lowe Hall, South Campus

Burton Morris: Pop!

Exhibition runs through Sunday, September 27.

Working in the Pop Art tradition, Burton Morris reduces everyday objects to iconic graphic forms and adds an energetic and colorful twist. This exhibition of flat and precisely painted art works includes more than 32 examples of his work.

Indian Art After Independence: Selected Works From the Collections of Virginia & Ravi Akhoury and Shelley & Donald Rubin

Tuesday, October 13-Friday, December 18

Through paintings and works on paper, this exhibition explores India's embrace of modernity and global culture since 1947 and offers an interesting window into the passion of two individual collectors. The confluence of modern art and the Indian independence movement is a useful lens for viewing 60 years of Indian artistic production that is distinctly Indian and at the same time relentlessly outward-looking. These works explore, in part, how Western visual and cultural language has been harnessed to the Indian identity and political and cultural reality. This exhibition is co-curated by Deborah Fisher, registrar of the Rubin Private Collection, and Rebecca M. Brown, Ph.D., associate professor of Indian art at Johns Hopkins University and author of Art for a Modern India, 1947-1980.

Exhibition Reception/Educator Open House

Andy Warhol: The Photographic Legacy Program Recent Gifts to the Hofstra University Museum

Exhibition runs through Sunday, September 20.

Photography played a major role in the creation and execution of Andy Warhol's art. The Polaroid and black-and-white gelatin silver prints in this exhibition offer a unique opportunity to see Warhol's working process and his interactions with his subjects. These photographs are part of a recent donation from the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts Photographic Legacy Program.

America's Irreplaceable Dance Treasures: The First 100 From the Dance Heritage Coalition, Inc.

Tuesday, September 29-Sunday, December 6

In celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Dance Program at Hofstra University, this exhibition documents the rich history of dance in America over a 100-year span. It includes panels with images of every aspect of dance from Native American dancers to jazz, tap, and ballet, and features images of major contributors such as Alvin Ailey, Fred Astaire, George Balanchine, Isadora Duncan, Martha Graham, Gene Kelly, and Maria Tallchief. The exhibit, which also includes video clips, serves as a reflection and a record of the nation's increasingly diverse, dynamic cultural life.

The Divine Flame

In conjunction with the exhibition America's Irreplaceable Dance Treasures: The First 100, this multidisciplinary piece brings together Isadora Duncan's dramatic life, her revolutionary dances, and the art and music that inspired her. The dance performance will mix visual projections, voice, instrument and spoken narration. Ms. Duncan, the "mother of modern dance," was a pioneering feminist and one of the first international superstars. The program features actress Shirley Romaine as narrator and Beth Jucovy, founder of Dance Visions, and her company of dancers.
