

Live Connections:

Planning from First-Year Composition to Writing Across the Curriculum

Mark McBeth
Associate Professor
John Jay College of Criminal Justice/CUNY

Tara Pauliny
Assistant Professor

Discussing the relationships between freshman-year composition and writing across the curriculum, these WAC coordinators (former and current) underscore the importance of students' writing rehearsal from the time they enter the college community and throughout their academic careers. Workshop participants will share classroom strategies and composing assignments that introduce students to writing in the disciplines.
