Tourette Syndrome in the Classroom and School

and related conditions:

- Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)
- Obsessive Compulsive Disorder (OCD)

sponsor

A program partnership of the Tourette Syndrome Association (TSA) and The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

November 8, 2006

8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sondra and David S. Mack Student Center
North Campus

A conference for: educators, psychologists, specialty area teachers, social workers, parents and anyone that has an interest in the treatment of Tourette Syndrome in the Classroom and School (TS) and related conditions: • Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) • Obsessive Compulsive Disorder (OCD)

This conference will additionally focus on Associated Learning Disabilities and Useful Classroom Strategies.

Why You Should Attend This Conference:

Individuals affected by Tourette Syndrome display a varying range of strengths and skill issues in the areas of academic, communication, social and behavioral realms. Many students with Tourette Syndrome will benefit from environments that provide specific modifications and supports in order to achieve positive and beneficial learning environments.

SUSAN CONNERS, M.Ed.

Conference Presenter

Ms. Conners is a career educator who is renowned for her motivational educational presentations on Tourette Syndrome (TS) and associated disorders as these affect the child with TS in the classroom environment. Ms. Conners is a co-author of the TSA Educators' Curriculum and travels widely, training professionals and families on Tourette Syndrome in the classroom. She has recently presented on Tourette Syndrome for the NASP (National Association of School Psychologists) and to officials of the United States Department of Education.

She is the education specialist for the Tourette Syndrome Association (TSA), former Third vice chair of the National Tourette Syndrome Association, and past chair of the TSA Education Committee.
